Victoria Legal Aid service information

We will:

- be professional and respectful
- listen to you and provide high quality service
- respect your privacy and treat any information you give us as confidential, unless the law says otherwise
- be impartial and open with you when assessing your enquiry or case, and provide a realistic assessment of it
- recognise and respond to any personal, cultural, social, or other issue that may affect your ability to engage with the legal system.

To help us assist you:

- while you are receiving our services, let us know if your details change – such as your address or job
- treat our staff with courtesy
- provide us with all the facts and circumstances of your case and give us any relevant documents as soon as possible
- meet the terms and conditions if you have a grant of legal assistance
- tell us if you are not satisfied with any part of our service or if you have any suggestions about ways we can improve.

Getting help over the phone

Contact our Legal Help phone line for free information about the law and how we can help you. It's open Monday to Friday, 8.45 am to 5.15 pm.

Call us on 1300 792 387.

If we can't help you with your legal problem we can refer you to other organisations who can.

You can speak to someone in English or ask for an interpreter. You can also get our Legal Help phone service in several different languages or we can organise an interpreter for you.

More information about our language lines is on our website at www.legalaid.vic.gov.au

Help for people who are deaf or have a hearing or speech impairment

If you are deaf or have a hearing or speech impairment you can use the National Relay Service to call us over the internet on 1300 792 387. This is a free service.

For more about internet relay see the National Relay Service website at www.relayservice.gov.au

TTY users can call 133 677 and then ask for 1300 792 387.

A guide to a grant of legal assistance

Grants of legal assistance are usually for criminal or family matters, but they can also be given in some other matters such as guardianship, infringements, immigration, social security, mental health or discrimination cases.

Will I get legal assistance?

This will depend on:

- your financial situation using a means test
- what your case is about
- the benefit you are likely to get from your legal case.

What is the means test?

The means test applies to most adults and considers:

- money you get from work, welfare benefits or other sources
- if you own anything of value, like a house or a car
- your weekly living expenses.

The means test also looks at whether you support anyone else, or if they support you. Your partner's income and assets are usually included when we work out if you are eligible for a grant.

If I get legal assistance what will the conditions be?

The conditions will be:

- special conditions outlined in the letter you receive from Victoria Legal Aid (VLA)
- standard conditions of legal assistance.

Standard conditions of legal assistance are:

1. You must tell VLA immediately:
 - (a) if you change your address while you are either receiving legal assistance or while you owe money to VLA
 - (b) there is any change in any information in your application
 - (c) there are any other changes that may affect your eligibility.
2. You allow your lawyer to give us any information we need to carry out our functions under the Legal Aid Act 1978.
3. Your lawyer must tell us if they receive any money on your behalf.
4. If you receive money following a court case (other than for damages), you must give this money to us.

We may stop or change your legal assistance if you do not follow the terms and conditions of your grant or the advice of your lawyer. You may have to pay some or all the costs of your case up to that point.

How much legal assistance will I get?

There is a limit on how much VLA will pay on your case. You should check with your lawyer.

What if I disagree with a decision of VLA?

You can ask us to reconsider most decisions including:

- a refusal to grant you legal assistance
- the conditions on which legal assistance is granted
- a decision to cancel the legal assistance
- the amount and method of paying a contribution.

How do I request reconsideration?

You or your lawyer must ask VLA to reconsider its decision within 14 days of the decision. You should include reasons why you think we should change our decision. We will send you a letter to let you know if we are changing our decision or it remains the same. If we do not change the decision, the letter will include information about your review rights.

If you are still unhappy with the decision after reconsideration you can write to us requesting a review by an independent reviewer. This is not an officer of VLA.

You must request a review in writing within 21 days of the decision. Independent reviewers make their decision based on your application, your letter, other material in your file and VLA's determinations and guidelines. The independent reviewer's decision is the final decision within VLA.

Is legal assistance free?

Not always. This will depend on your financial situation.

How does my lawyer get paid?

VLA pays your lawyer directly. Your lawyer cannot ask you to pay any costs for work done under a grant of legal assistance.

How do I get more information?

If you want more information on grants of assistance and the whole grants process, you can find it in the VLA Handbook located on our website at <http://handbook.vla.vic.gov.au>

How do I withdraw the authorisation I have given to VLA to contact Centrelink?

VLA may request information from Centrelink at regular intervals during the life of your legal assistance file. You can withdraw this authorisation at any time by giving notice, in writing, to VLA. However, doing this could affect your eligibility for legal aid.

Further information

Collection Notice

We use the information provided on this form to assess your eligibility for legal assistance. Section 23 (5) of the Legal Aid Act 1978 provides that applicants shall provide us with the information we require to make this assessment. If you do not provide it, we may not be able to assess your eligibility.

We also use the information you provide to update your contact details and to evaluate our services. We also provide statistical information, after removing names of legal assistance applicants, to government to report on how we are fulfilling our obligations to the community.

In accordance with our privacy and confidentiality obligations, we generally do not disclose your information. However, we will sometimes disclose it to assist in the listing of cases at court, to recover costs, to respond to a court order to provide legal assistance or if we are required by law to disclose it.

You can find out more about how we handle personal information in our privacy policy, available on our website at www.legalaid.vic.gov.au or by calling or visiting a VLA office.

You can request access to the information we hold about you, or ask us questions about how we handle your information, by contacting our Internal Legal Services team.
